

Abstract

An article for delivery of a chemical reactant includes a liquid or solvated chemical reactant pre-moistened into an applicator. A chemical reactant impervious package has a pouch adapted to enclose the applicator for storage. The chemical reactant delivery article is based on capillary action to wick the continuing supply of chemical reactant to the substrate contacting portion of the applicator and as such is operative independent of chemical reactant gravitational flow.

5